

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A transport system, in particular high-speed baggage handling system for airports, includes a plurality of individual conveyors of modular configuration, which are driven and placed in succession to define a transport path, and a coupling mechanism for coupling conveyors to form a mechanical unitary structure.